

Zen Zion Coptic Orthodox Church of Reformed Rastafarianism

The Zen Zion Coptic Orthodox Church of Reformed Rastafarianism (the 'Merry Wonderers') announces the installation of the new Bishop of Albuquerque (and the surrounding wastelands): Dr. Norman W. Katz, PhD, a psychologist who has taught at Harvard, the University of Chicago, Washington University, University of St. Louis, and UNM, and who does behavioral medicine consultation and training worldwide, with recent seminars in China, Bali, and Central America, among other locations.

His alter ego, DRBLUE, is one of the most pre-eminent shamanic workers in the world, and his recent conversion was an addition beyond belief for our church. DRBLUE has massive experience with intentionally building community.

DRBLUE is one of the instigators behind the local Burning Man tribe (an intentional community of shamanic trance workers). They do their work at the '3SidedWhole', an alternative shamanic community located north of Albuquerque on the edge of the Rio Puerco wilderness, where they build community through music and shamanic ceremonies, both physically, and cybernetically, at www.3sidedwhole.com.

DRBLUE will be installed as Bishop of Albuquerque in a ceremony at 3SidedWhole's 'Kosmic Temple' at Ten AM on Sunday, May 30th.

We are somber, but pleased as well, to announce the retirement of our beloved Bishop Bruce Bush of Albuquerque, NM, who has led the flock in ever so many ways since the early nineties, culminating in his appointment to the holy chair.

Bruce is our church's first openly gay bishop, and he has presided over at least two gay marriages, and even though he's been a professional pedagogue these many years (retired now), unlike other churches, he's never been charged with, nor covered up any sex with any children, gay or strait.

Bruce is also well known as one of the pillars of the New Mexico

Libertarian Party in the Duke City. He did it all with a panache and flair that said "This is a CLASS act you're watching" (not some ragged hippy come begging, this man had facts on hand).

His flock, his students, and his friends will all miss him.

We can only hope that this change, though it will leave us with 'memories' where there once was a person, will also bring us new memories of new people and a bigger community for all.

Blessings of Jah upon all of us,
